

Privacy Notice

We at Ambridge have created this Privacy Notice to explain how we collect, use, disclose and otherwise process personal information in connection with the company's ambridge-group.com website and the business contact information we collect. We have provided this brief overview of our information practices for your convenience, but please see below for our full Underwriting & Insurance Services Privacy Notice.

Our website is designed for individuals acting in their business capacity, and prospective clients and their representatives. Our website and services are not intended for personal, family or household use. Accordingly, we treat all personal information covered by this Privacy Notice as pertaining to individuals acting as business representative, rather than in a personal capacity.

Email us at privacy@ambridge-group.com if you have questions about our Privacy Notice.

How We Collect Information

We collect information by various means:

- directly from you or your representative;
- from our customers and business partners; or
- from recruiters.

Information We Collect

The information we collect may include:

- contact and demographic information;
- professional credentials and education information;
- other details or materials you or your representative choose to provide when communicating with us in connection with employment or our products services; or
- cookies and other usage information we collect by automated means.

How We Use Your Information

We use the information we collect to:

- provide, analyse the use of, improve, and promote our products and services;
- comply with laws, rules and our policies;
- process employment applications; or
- perform our services.

Information Sharing

We may share the information we collect:

- within our company (including to our affiliates);
- with our service providers and business partners;
- as required by laws, regulations, rules and our internal policies;
- to our professional advisors;
- to the insurers (and their reinsurers and respective advisers) for which we underwrite; or
- in connection with a merger, acquisition or another corporate transaction.

This Privacy Notice describes the privacy practices of Ambridge Europe GmbH & Co. KG, having its registered office at Eschersheimer Landstrasse 14, 60322 Frankfurt am Main, Germany ("Ambridge") in connection with the ambridge-group.com website and the personal information we collect in our capacity as a data controller. For more specific details regarding our provision of underwriting or insurance-related services, please note that such services are governed by our contracts with our brokers or customers and our Underwriting & Insurance Services Privacy Statement. This Privacy Notice describes how we collect, use, disclose and otherwise process personal information and explains the rights and choices available to individuals with respect to their information. References to "personal information" in this Privacy Policy are equivalent to "personal data" governed by the General Data Protection Regulation (EU) 2016/679 ("GDPR").

Ambridge may provide additional privacy notices to individuals at the time we collect their data. This type of an "in-time" notice will govern how we may process the information they provide at that time.

Information We Collect

Whose information we collect

We may collect information about individuals who interact with Ambridge (including via our websites), our customers (and their representatives), job applicants, and other individuals.

How we collect the information

We may collect information:

- Directly from individuals, when they contact us via email, telephone or by any other means;
- From our customers and business partners in the course of providing our services; or
- When we receive personal data from third parties in the course of conducting our day-to-day operations, for example from recruiters, other third-party service providers and business contacts.

Types of information we collect

The types of information we collect may include:

- Personal and business contact information (such as name, employer name, email address, mailing address, and phone number);
- Biographical and demographic information (such as date of birth, age, gender, and marital status);
- Information of the type that would be included on a resume or curriculum vitae, such as professional credentials, educational history, education, work history, and languages spoken;
- Information provided to us in connection with our services. For more information, please see our Underwriting & Insurance Services Privacy Statement below; or
- Information automatically collected when you access our website, as further described in the section Cookies and Other Information Collected by Automated Means below.

Please note that in limited circumstances the personal data that we process may also include sensitive personal data as defined in Art. 9 (1) of the GDPR.

Creation of personal data

In providing our services, we may also create personal data, such as records of the data subject's interactions with us and other details of the business relationship.

Our Use of Personal Information

In this section, we set out the purposes for which we process personal information and identify the legal grounds on which we rely to process the information, which are described below. We may use personal information to:

- Manage and communicate with you regarding your relationship with us, including by responding to requests, inquiries, comments, and suggestions;
- Analyse and enhance our communications and strategies (including by identifying emails sent to you have been received and read);
- Operate, evaluate and improve our business (including the provision of underwriting and other insurance-related services), our websites, and other products and services we offer (including to research and develop new products and services);
- Tailor the content we display in our communications and on our websites;

- Comply with regulatory reporting obligations;
- Comply with legal requirements, judicial process, and our company policies (including to verify users' identity in connection with access or correction requests)
- Protect against, identify, investigate, and respond to fraud, illegal activity (such as incidents of hacking or misuse of our websites), and claims and other liabilities, including by enforcing the terms and conditions that govern the services we provide; or
- Process employment applications.

We may also aggregate and/or de-identify any information that we collect, such that the information no longer identifies any specific individual. We may use, disclose and otherwise process such information for our own legitimate business purposes – including historical and statistical analysis and business planning – without restriction.

For more information concerning how we use or process personal information provided to us in connection with underwriting and/or other insurance-related services, please refer to our contract with our brokers or customers and our Underwriting & Insurance Services Privacy Statement below.

To send marketing communications

If you request information from us, we may send you Ambridge-related marketing communications as permitted by law. You have the ability to opt out of such communications by notifying us at privacy@ambridge-group.com.

In such jurisdictions where the sending of electronic marketing requires a double-opt-in procedure, we will comply with the respective requirements.

To comply with law

We use your personal information as we believe necessary or appropriate to comply with applicable laws, lawful requests and legal process, such as to respond to subpoenas or requests from government authorities.

With your consent

We will request your consent to use your personal information where such consent is required by law. If we request your consent to use your personal information, you have the right to withdraw your consent at any time in the manner indicated when we requested the consent or by contacting us. If you have consented to receive marketing communications from our third-party partners, you may withdraw your consent by contacting those partners directly.

To manage our recruiting and process employment applications

If you submit your information in connection with job opportunities at Ambridge, we may use and disclose the information to process your application (including to contact you and/or your references and former employers if appropriate), to monitor recruitment statistics, and to comply with government reporting requirements. We may also retain statistical information about applicants to help inform our recruitment activities.

To create pseudonymous data for analytics

We may create pseudonymous data from any information that we collect, including your personal information, by excluding information that makes the data personally identifiable. We may use, disclose and otherwise process such information for our own legitimate business purposes – including historical and statistical analysis and business planning – without restriction.

For compliance, fraud prevention and safety

We use your personal information as we believe necessary or appropriate to (a) enforce the terms and conditions that govern the website; (b) protect our rights, privacy, safety or property, and/or that of you or others; and (c) protect, investigate and deter against fraudulent, harmful, unauthorised, unethical or illegal activity, including by performing KYC and AML checks.

Our legal basis for the processing activities described above are as follows:

Processing purpose	Legal basis
To operate our website and communicate with business contacts about our services	Processing is necessary to perform the contract governing our provision of the services or to take steps that you request prior to procuring our services. In addition, these processing activities may constitute our legitimate interests. Art. 6 (1) lit. b) of the GDPR.
To send marketing communications	These processing activities constitute our legitimate interests.
To manage our recruiting and process employment applications	We make sure we consider and balance any potential impact on you (both positive and negative) and your rights before we process your personal information for our legitimate interests.
To create anonymous data for analytics	We do not use your personal information for activities where our interests are overridden by the impact on you (unless we have your consent or are otherwise required or permitted to by law).
For compliance, fraud prevention and safety	Art. 6 (1) lit. f) of the GDPR.
To comply with law	Processing is necessary to comply with our legal obligations. Art. 6 (1) lit. c) of the GDPR.
With your consent	Processing is based on your consent. Where we rely on your consent you have the right to withdraw it at anytime in the manner indicated in this Privacy Policy, in a supplemental privacy notice, or by contacting us at privacy@ambridge-group.com . Art. 6 (1) lit. a) of the GDPR.

Processing of sensitive personal data

We do not seek to collect or otherwise process sensitive personal data, except where:

- The processing is required or permitted by applicable law;
- The processing is necessary for the detection or prevention of crime (including the prevention of fraud, money laundering and/or financing terrorism);
- The processing is necessary for the establishment, exercise or defence of legal rights;
- We have, in accordance with applicable law, obtained the data subject's prior consent prior to processing the data subject's sensitive personal data (as above, this legal basis is only used in relation to processing that is entirely voluntary – it is not used for processing that is necessary or obligatory in any way); or
- The sensitive personal data is publicly available.

Use for new purposes

We may use your personal information for reasons not described in this Privacy Policy where permitted by law and the reason is compatible with the purpose for which we collected it. If we need to use your personal information for an unrelated purpose, we will notify you and explain the applicable legal basis.

Information We Share

Ambridge may share personal information for the purposes described in this Privacy Notice or a specific “in-time” privacy notice we may provide at the time we collect the information.

We may share personal information with:

- Ambridge affiliates and subsidiaries for purposes consistent with this Privacy Policy, including Ambridge Partners LLC and Ambridge Europe Limited;
- Service providers that perform services on our behalf, such as customer service and support providers and technology providers (including technology support, email and web hosting providers, email and text communications providers);
- Governmental and industry regulators;
- Professional advisors, such as lawyers, bankers, accountants, financial advisors, auditors and insurers, where necessary in the course of the professional services that they render to us; or
- The insurers for which we underwrite (and their reinsurers and professional advisors).

Unless prohibited by applicable law, we reserve the right to transfer the information we maintain in the event we sell or transfer all or a portion of our business or assets. If we engage in such a sale or transfer, we will – where required by applicable law – make reasonable efforts to direct the recipient to use your personal information in a manner that is consistent with this Privacy Notice. After such a sale or transfer, you may contact the recipient with any inquiries concerning the processing of your personal information.

In addition, we may share your information to comply with legal and regulatory requirements, and protect against and prevent fraud, illegal activity (such as identifying and responding to incidents of hacking or misuse of our websites) and claims and other liabilities.

Cookies and Other Information Collected by Automated Means

We, our service providers, and our business partners, may also collect certain information about the use of our websites by automated means, such as cookies, web beacons and other technologies. A “cookie” is a text file that websites send to a visitor’s computer or other internet-connected device to uniquely identify the visitor’s browser or to store information or settings in the browser. Please see our Cookie Notice below for more information on cookies. We and our service providers and business partners may collect information about your online activities over time and across third-party websites when you use our websites.

The information that may be collected by automated means includes:

- Details about the devices that are used to access our websites (such as the IP address, and type of operating system and web browser);
- Dates and times of visits to, and use of, our websites;
- Information about how our websites are used (such as the content that is viewed on our websites and how users navigate between our webpages);
- Details about how individuals interact with our emails (such as whether the email is opened and which links are clicked in the email);
- URLs that refer visitors to our websites; or
- Search terms used to reach our websites.

Web browsers may offer users of our websites the ability to disable receiving certain types of cookies, however, if cookies are disabled, some features or functionality of our websites may not function correctly.

Because there is not yet a consensus on how companies should respond to web browser-based do-not-track (“DNT”) mechanisms, we do not respond to web browser-based DNT signals at this time. Please see the Privacy Preferences, Rights and Choices section below for information about how you may opt out of, or limit the use of, your browsing behavior for online behavioral advertising purposes.

Data Retention

We will retain your information only for as long as necessary to fulfill the purpose(s) for which the information was collected, depending on the purpose(s) for which the information was collected, the nature of the information, any contractual relationship that may govern the retention of the data, and our legal or regulatory obligations.

To determine the appropriate retention period for personal information, we consider the amount, nature, and sensitivity of the personal information, the potential risk of harm from unauthorised use or disclosure of your personal information, the purposes for which we process your personal information and whether we can achieve those purposes through other means, and the applicable legal requirements.

When we no longer require the personal information we have otherwise collected about you, we will dissociate such information from the information attached to your content in accordance with our document retention policy and practices. In some circumstances we may pseudonymise your personal information (so that it can no longer be associated with you), in which case we may use this information indefinitely without further notice to you.

Privacy Preferences, Rights, and Choices

Your privacy rights

By sending correspondence to privacy@ambridge-group.com or our postal address provided below, you may ask us to take the following actions in relation to your personal information that we hold:

- Opt-out. Stop sending you direct marketing communications. You may continue to receive service-related and other non-marketing emails.
- Access. Provide you with information about our processing of your personal information and give you access to your personal information.
- Correct. Update or correct inaccuracies in your personal information.
- Delete. Delete your personal information.
- Transfer. Transfer a machine-readable copy of your personal information to you or a third party of your choice.
- Restrict. Restrict the processing of your personal information.
- Object. Object to our reliance on our legitimate interests as the basis of our processing of your personal information.

You can submit these requests in writing to privacy@ambridge-group.com or our postal address provided below. We may request specific information from you to help us confirm your identity and process your request. Applicable law may require or permit us to decline your request. If we decline your request, we will tell you why, subject to legal restrictions. If you would like to submit a complaint about our use of your personal information or response to your requests regarding your personal information, you may contact us as described below or submit a complaint to the data protection regulator in your jurisdiction. You can find your data protection regulator please visit https://edpb.europa.eu/about-edpb/board/members_en.

Marketing e-mails – opting out

You may unsubscribe from receiving marketing or other commercial emails from Ambridge by contacting us at privacy@ambridge-group.com or our postal address provided below. However, even if you opt out of receiving such communications, we retain the right to send you non-marketing communications (such as information about changes in our website terms).

Choosing not to provide your personal information

You may choose not to provide personal information to us. However, we may not be able to provide services to you if we are required to collect your personal information or if we need your personal information in order to provide the services. We will tell you what information you must provide to receive our services by designating it as required or through other appropriate means.

International Data Transfers

We may transfer your personal information to countries other than the country in which the data was originally collected for the purposes described in this Privacy Notice. For example, we may transfer your personal information to the United States, where Ambridge Partners LLC, Ambridge's affiliate company is headquartered. The countries to which we transfer personal information may not have the same data protection laws as the country in which you initially provided the information. When we transfer personal information across borders, we consider a variety of requirements that may apply to such transfers.

Specifically, we may transfer personal information from the European Economic Area (EEA) to:

- Countries that the European Commission has deemed to adequately safeguard personal information;
- Pursuant to the recipient's compliance with standard contractual clauses concluded with us or the group company which is transferring the personal data outside the EEA or with the EU-US Privacy Shield and our internal data transfer agreement;
- Pursuant to the consent of the individual to whom the personal information pertains; or
- As otherwise permitted by applicable EEA requirements.

You may contact us if you want further information on the specific mechanism used by us when transferring your personal information out of the EEA or a copy of the respective documents.

How We Protect Information

Ambridge maintains reasonable administrative, technical and physical safeguards designed to protect the personal information we maintain against accidental, unlawful or unauthorised destruction, loss, alteration, access, disclosure or use.

Links to Websites and Third-Party Content

For your convenience and information, we may provide links to websites and other third-party content that is not owned or operated by Ambridge. The websites and third-party content to which we link may have separate privacy notices or policies. Ambridge is not responsible for the privacy practices of any entity that it does not own or control.

Updates to Our Privacy Notice

Ambridge reserves the right to change this Privacy Notice at any time. When we update this Privacy Notice, we will notify you of changes that are deemed material under applicable legal requirements by updating the date of this Privacy Notice and providing other notification as required by applicable law. We may also notify you of changes to the Privacy Notice in other ways, such as via email or other contact information you have provided.

How to Contact Us

Ambridge is the controller of your personal information for purposes of European data protection legislation. You may contact us with questions, comments, or complaints about this Privacy Notice or our privacy practices, or to request access to or correction of your information. Our contact information is as follows:

Ambridge Europe GmbH & Co KG
Attn: Legal – Privacy
Friedrich-Ebert-Anlage 36,
60325 Frankfurt am Main, Germany
privacy@ambridge-group.com

If you are a resident within the EEA, you also have the right to file a complaint with the supervisory authority of your member state

COOKIE NOTICE

Ambridge Europe GmbH & Co. KG

This Cookie Notice describes how Ambridge Europe GmbH & Co. KG (in the following referred to as “Ambridge”, “we” or “us”) use cookies on our website.

Ambridge uses cookies as described in this Cookie Notice. More specifically, Ambridge collects cookies specifically and exclusively for Google Analytics. More information on how Google uses cookies please visit <https://policies.google.com/technologies/cookies?hl=en>.

What are cookies?

A cookie is a small file of letters and numbers that are stored via your browser on the hard drive of your computer or mobile device.

Generally, there are three main types of cookies:

- Session cookies: specific to a particular visit and limited to sending session identifiers (random numbers generated by the server) so you don't have to re-enter information when you navigate to a new page or check out. Session cookies are not permanently stored on your device and are deleted when the browser closes;
- Persistent cookies: record information about your preferences and are stored in your browser cache; and
- Third party cookies: placed by someone other person or entity which may gather data across.

In particular, we use the following cookies for Google Analytics:

Name of Cookie	Purpose of Cookie, How it is Updated and Expiration (if applicable)
_utma	This cookie is typically written to the browser upon the first visit to our site from that web browser. If the cookie has been deleted by the browser operator, and the browser subsequently visits our site, a new utma cookie is written with a different unique ID. This cookie is used to determine unique visitors to our site and it is updated with each page view. Additionally, this cookie is provided with a unique ID that Google Analytics uses to ensure both the validity and accessibility of the cookie as an extra security measure.
_utmb	This cookie is used to establish and continue a user session with our site. When a user views a page on our site, the Google Analytics code attempts to update this cookie. If it does not find the cookie, a new one is written and a new session is established. Each time a user visits a different page on our site, this cookie is updated to expire in 30 minutes, thus continuing a single session for as long as user activity continues within 30-minute intervals. This cookie expires when a user pauses on a page on our site for longer than 30 minutes.
_utmc	This cookie operates in conjunction with the utmb cookie to determine whether or not to establish a new session for the user. In particular, this cookie is not provided with an expiration date, so it expires when the user exits the browser. Should a user visit our site, exit the browser and then return to your website within 30 minutes, the absence of the utmc cookie indicates that a new session needs to be established, despite the fact that the utmb cookie has not yet expired.

_utmz	This cookie stores the type of referral used by the visitor to reach our site, whether via a direct method, a referring link, a website search, or a campaign such as an ad or an email link. It is used to calculate search engine traffic, ad campaigns and page navigation within our own site. The cookie is updated with each page view to our site.

Third Party Cookies

As set forth above, the website uses cookies for Google Analytics, which is operated by Google, a third party. You acknowledge that we have no control over those cookies or the data generated. Please refer to the Google's privacy policy for information on what information it collects and how it uses such information.

Refusing or deleting cookies by browser settings

We offer you a possibility to edit your cookie settings right away with our check-the-box solution. However, most internet browsers are set up by default to accept cookies. If you also want to change your browser settings in order to refuse or delete cookies (or similar technologies) for any other websites, please refer to the help and support area on your browser for instructions on how to block or delete cookies (for example: Internet Explorer, Google Chrome, Mozilla Firefox or Safari). Please note you may not be able to take advantage of all the features of our Website, including certain personalised features, if you delete or refuse cookies.

For more information on managing cookies, please go to www.allaboutcookies.org.

If you are a resident in the EU:

For more information on managing cookies, please visit www.youronlinechoices.eu which has further information about behavioral advertising and online privacy.

Changes To Our Cookie Notice

This Cookie Notice may be updated from time to time. If we change anything important about this Cookie Notice we will notify you through a pop-up on the website for a reasonable length of time prior to and following the change. You may review the Cookie Notice by visiting the Website and clicking on the "Cookie Notice" link.

For further information on our privacy settings, please go to our Privacy Notice above.

Ambridge Underwriting & Insurance Services Privacy Statement (“Privacy Statement”)

The Ambridge Group (which includes Ambridge Partners LLC, Ambridge Europe Limited (and its subsidiary, Ambridge Europe GmbH & Co. KG)) (“The Group” or “we” and each entity a “Group Entity”) provides underwriting and/or insurance-related services. This Privacy Statement explains how we collect, use, disclose, and otherwise process end user personal data in connection with our products and services, including the insurance policies we underwrite (collectively, the “Services”).

The Group’s processing of personal data in connection with the Services is governed by this Privacy Statement and our customer agreements, including without limitation any Non-Disclosure Agreements, Expense Agreements or other agreement (each, a “Customer Agreement”) with any Group Entity. In the event of any conflict between this Privacy Statement and a Customer Agreement, the Customer Agreement will control to the extent permitted by applicable law.

This Privacy Statement is not a substitute for any privacy notice that any Group Entity’s customers are required to provide to their employees or other end users.

Information We Collect

Information provided to us by customers in connection with their use of the Services. This may include personal data that customers provide when they:

- Provide information in connection with soliciting the Services in their capacity as a representative of a business; or
- Submit documents, such as presentations or due diligence materials, to a Group Entity for purposes of underwriting and other insurance-related services. We process this information only to provide the Services as described in this Privacy Statement and the relevant Customer Agreements (as such term is defined herein).

How We Use Information

We use the information we collect for the following purposes:

To provide our Services, which includes using information for the purposes of:

- Underwriting due diligence and assessing materials submitted in connection with claims for insurance coverage and other notifications under the insurance policies we underwrite;
- Performing KYC and AML checks;
- Determining whether additional information is needed for purposes of underwriting or claims servicing; and
- Improving the Services and developing new products and services.

Our legal basis for processing personal information for the above purposes is our legitimate interest in providing services to our Customers (as such term is defined herein).

To comply with law: We may use personal information as we believe necessary or appropriate to comply with applicable law.

For compliance, fraud prevention and safety: As we believe necessary or appropriate to (a) enforce the terms and conditions that govern the Services; (b) protect our rights, privacy, safety or property, and/or that of you or others; and (c) protect, investigate and deter against fraudulent, harmful, unauthorised, unethical or illegal activity.

Our legal basis for processing personal information for these purposes is our legitimate interest in operating our business.

How We Share Information

We share the information we collect with:

- Our parent, subsidiaries, and affiliates (including all Group Entities) for purposes consistent with this Privacy Statement;
- The insurers (and their reinsurers and legal advisors) for which we underwrite;
- Third party service providers that help us administer, execute, manage and improve the Services;
- Our professional advisors, such as lawyers, accounting/financial/professional advisors, bankers, auditors and insurers, where necessary in the course of the professional services that they render to us;
- Government, regulator, law enforcement officials or private parties as required by law or regulation, when we believe such disclosure is necessary or appropriate to (a) comply with applicable law; (b) enforce the terms and conditions that govern the Service; (c) protect our rights, privacy, safety or property, and/or that of you or others; and (d) protect, investigate and deter against fraudulent, harmful, unauthorised, unethical or illegal activity

We may sell, transfer or otherwise share some or all of a Group Entity's business or assets, including personal data, in connection with a business deal (or potential business deal) such as a merger, consolidation, acquisition, reorganisation or sale of assets or in the event of bankruptcy.

Data Subject Rights

For the purposes of this Agreement, the term "Customer" includes any person or entity, together with their affiliates, that requests our underwriting and/or insurance-related services as well as their representatives (including employees, brokers, legal advisors and other professional advisors).

Customers of a Group Entity are data controllers of the personal data they provide to us, and have a direct relationship with the Customer providing the personal data to the Group Entity in connection with the Services. Our customers are responsible for providing or requiring their Customers to provide all necessary privacy notices to the individuals to whom the personal data pertain, as well as receiving and responding to – or requiring their Customers to receive and respond to – data subjects' requests to exercise any rights afforded to them under applicable data protection law. The Group will assist Customers in responding to such requests as set forth in a Customer Agreement, if applicable. For additional information concerning Data Subject Rights, please contact privacy@ambridge-group.com.

Information for Individuals in the European Economic Area:

Data subjects in Europe whose information is processed by Ambridge Partners, LLC, and data subjects whose information is processed by Ambridge Europe Limited and its subsidiaries (including Ambridge Europe GmbH & Co. KG), have rights to request to: access, correct, delete, and transfer their personal information; and restrict and object to our processing of personal information.

Cross Border Data Transfer

In connection with the Services, the Group or a Group Entity may transfer personal data to countries outside the European Union. When transferring data to Ambridge Partners LLC in the United States, Ambridge Europe Limited and Ambridge Europe GmbH & Co. KG rely on standard contractual clauses to establish the basis for the transfer. If we transfer personal data to other third parties outside of the European Union, we verify that the transfer is supported by an appropriate legal basis, such as the third party's EU-US Privacy Shield certification, model clauses, or Binding Corporate Rules.

Data Retention

Subject to the terms of any Customer Agreements with the Group, we retains personal data for as long as necessary to (a) provide the Services; (b) comply with legal obligations; (c) resolve disputes; and (d) enforce the terms of Customer Agreements. we will retain data as set forth in a Customer Agreement, if applicable. For additional information concerning the Group's data retention practices, please contact privacy@ambridge-group.com.

Contact Us

If you have any question about this Ambridge Underwriting & Insurance Services Privacy Statement, you can contact our privacy team at privacy@ambridge-group.com.

Individuals in the European Economic Area (EEA) may contact Ambridge Europe GmbH & Co. KG, which is the data controller for individuals located in the EEA:

Ambridge Europe GmbH & Co. KG
Attn: Legal – Privacy
Friedrich-Ebert-Anlage 36,
60325 Frankfurt am Main, Germany

Residents within the EEA also have the right to file a complaint with the supervisory authority of their member state.